BECOME PART OF THE NEW ATVB EARLY CAREER EDITORIAL BOARD

The editors of ATVB are creating an Early Career Editorial board. The intent is to provide insight into the editorial process by engaging scientists who have recently completed their formal research training. The editors will select members of the board using the following criteria:

Selection criteria

1. AHA membership (required).
2. Early Career investigator status – this is normally no more than 10 years of research experience following award of a doctoral degree.
3. Reviewer activity for ATVB.
4. Publications in ATVB.
5. Social media activity for ATVB
6. Engagement with ATVB Council activities, including conference attendance.
7. Social media activity for ATVB.
8. Engagement with ATVB Council activities, including conference attendance.

Nominations: The Editors welcome nominations, including self-nominations. These nominations should include a complete curriculum vitae, a brief description of each selection criterion, and a letter of recommendation from an ATVB Council member. Please email all nominations to ATVB@ATVB.ORG

Deadline for nominations

July 31, 2018

Evaluation process

Nominations will be reviewed by the ATVB editors and will be announced at the editorial board dinner in November 2018. Successful nominees will be contacted and will commence their term on January 1, 2019.

Term

Successful nominees will serve a two-year term on the editorial board, subject to yearly review.

Submission

Please submit your CV, Selection Criteria Description and ATVB Council member letter of recommendation by email to ATVB@ATVB.ORG
